WAS DIVORCED AND

Peculiar Development in Suit Brought by Mrs. Wilhelmina C. Dittmer.

WOMAN SIGNED A PAPER

Then She Went to Germany, and Meanwhile Her Husband Married Again.

Although her husband, Edward R. Dittmer, a tailor at A. H. Crabbe Clothing company, had obtained a divorce from her and married again Mrs. Wilhelmina C. Dittmer did not know it until yesterday afternoon Last Tuesday she filed a suit for divorce, alleging desertion, and that he was living with another woman at his home at 253 G street. When he was summoned into court yesterday after noon on an order to show cause why noon on an order to show cause why he should not be compelled to pay her temporary alimony, the decree that he obtained on May 7, 1907, was produced as evidence. Judge C. W. Morse continued the case for one week and in the meantime an investigation will be made into the manner in which the former decree was obtained.

Mrs. Dittmer is German and unable to speak English. She says that about two years ago her husband took her to a lawyer's office and that she was asked a number of questions which were translated to her by her husband and he gave her answers to the attorney in English. She also signed a paper at that time, she says, and a month later Dittmer gave her $300 to purchase transportation to Germany, and she took her son with her. The decree obtained by Dittmer shows that there was a division of the property and that Mrs. Dittmer was given the custody of her son, who is 17 years old.

SIGNED THE PAPER.

SIGNED THE PAPER.

When Mrs. Dittmer signed the paper, she declares that her husband threatened to send her to jail and told her he wanted her to go back to Germany. She took the money which he gave her and returned to Germany. The immigration officials in Germany refused to allow her to remain in Germany because she was in ill health and dependent upon somebody for a living. Her son was admitted and joined the army. Mrs. Dittmer was sent back to the United States,

She alleges that when she arrived in the United States,

She alleges that when she arrived in Salt Lake she found her husband living with another woman. He refused to let her enter the house and for several months she has been living with friends. After she had been here the required length of time, she was advised to bring a suit for divorce and secure some support in the way of permanent allmony from her husband. She followed this advice only to learn that she had been divorced two years ago and that her husband was married again.

HE MARRIED AGAIN.

Mr. Dittmer was communicated with by telephone this morning. He said that he secured a divorce in a regular manner and gave his wife her share in the property. He said that he had married again. A search of the marriage licenses in the county clerk's office does not reveal that he was married in Salt Lake county.

INDIFFERENCE TOO MUCH.

Clara Peterson Relates Her Woes in Action for Divorce.

Mrs. Clara L. Peterson seeks a divoice from her husband, and applies for an order to have his farm valued at $4,000 sold and a division of the property made in a suit filed this morning in the Third district court. She asks for the custody of their minor child and $50 temporary alimony and $200 attorney fees pending the action.

They were married in Manti on January 8, 1308, and shortly afterward moved onto Peterson's farm in Moroni, Sanpete county. Peterson began to treat her with indifference about six months after their marriage and sent months after their marriage and sent her to Salt Lake where her parents live. She borrowed enough money about two months ago to return to Moroni and she asked him to support her, but he refused to do it, or allow her to live with him again,

PLUMBERS TESTIFY.

Fifteen Witnesses Present Their Side Of the Controversy.

Fifteen union plumbers were exam ned this morning and yesterday after-noon in Judge Ritchie's court in the injunction suit sought by the master-plumbers to prohibit them from inter-ferring with the non-union plumbers who are working in the strikers' places. Every witness denied that they had who are working in the strikers' places. Every witness denied that they had threatened or intimidated any non-union man. It was admitted by several of them that W. C. Cook, a non-union man, who came from Cleveland, Ohio, had been assaulted by union men, and that J. Molcher, who was arrested and convicted of battery upon Cook, was assisted by the union. His fine was paid and he was given transportation out of the city. It developed further that the union men went to the train when the strike-breakers arrived here and called them "rats," "scabs," and other names. None of them admitted that they called the strike-breakers these names, but many of them admitted that they called the strike-breakers used in the crowd.

The defense has about five more plumbers to call and then it will rest. It is probable that the testimony will

The following day, Acting Coroner Hanks stated that he could not take action in the matter, as Dr. M. R. Stewart, city head of the health department, had officially notified him that he had investigated the case and that the cause of death was accidental, and that no inquest was necessary.

It developed this morning that Dr. Stewart. In making such a report,

The landlady swore that she knew nothing of this case. She said that she was not in the house when Goring was killed. She said that a girl by the name of Maudie Dark, her assistant, assigned Goring to room 9 about 7 o'clock Monday night; that at 9 o'clock she heard a crash on the stairs and on running out she discovered Goring lying face downward on the stairs between the second and third stories.

The landlady refused to disclose her own identity. She at first said that one of the patrolmen who first arrived was the policeman who walked that beat, but later declined to give his name. She denied that she paid tribute to the pelice.

Chief of Police Barlow was acquainted with the facts that false reports had been given out on this case by the police, and after taking notes on the salient polits, he stated emphatically that he would make a strict investigation.

It appears that his men have lied outright to Chief of Police Barlow in this matter. A false written report was turned in to the chief, and he was advised as to the facts for the first time this morning.

This morning she admitted to a representative of The News that she had lied to the police; that she had "made a mistake;" that she was not present when Goring came in; that a girl named "Mardule Dark" gave Goring room 2; and that Goring did not register as Judge Harper.

Edinund F. Goring, son of the dead man, declares that he will never rest until he has unearthed every detail surrounding his fathers' tragic death. It appears that the landlady and the police "got off wrong" when they declared that Goring had been in the place in an intoxicated condition for three whole days prior to his death. This great medicine has an un equalled, unapproached record for purifying and enriching the blood. It cures scrofula, eczema, eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, anemia, nervous-simply because it contains sarsaparilla but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Lower Tribunal Affirmed in Two Case

Appealed From Fourth District. The supreme court today affirmed the decision of Judge Booth of the Fourth district court in sentencing Mrs. Elizabeth Moore of Salt Lake to 30 days in the state prison for a statutory offense. The case was appealed on a number of technicalities. In the case of William H. Pool, appellant, against the Utah County Light and Power company, the suprem-court affirmed the decision of the lower court. The case involved the right to 60 second feet of water in American Fork canyon. The company filed its application for the water and Pool declared that he had a prior right to it. The lower court decided in favor of the company and it was affirmed.

bank of Ogden and reported the inci-dect. Shortly afterward the Oregon bank, which had been despoiled, it is said, identified the currency. Then Price had quaims of conscience, or otherwise, and now questions the identification of the bills.

States against Charles G. Price, and the amount involved is just $2,410. If it had not been for those two stamps or for the innate honesty of Mr. Price, there would never have been a case before the federal tribunal.

The presumption is this: The East Side hank of Portland, Ore., was robbed last spring of sundry and divers funds. Shortly after this time Charles G. Price, a workman of Ogden, went to the posterities and upon inquiring for his mail received among other packages one which was bulky and which was wrapped in a copy of The Descret News. On opening this he found $3,410 in bills.

Not knowing what to do with this he deposited it in the First National the bills.

It is a sadly mixed up affair. Price wants the money, saying that it may have come to him from some maternal or fraternal grandmother or grand-tather or some other progenitor and the bank of Ogden is putting its shoulder to the wheel to protect its depositor. The Portland financial concern wants its money and Uncle Sam don't know just where he is at and has asked Col. Booth and Judge Page Morris to determine his status.

The testimony in the case was presented in the federal court this morning and the court adjourned until Monday morning for argument.

Patrolmen Brown and Patterson, responded to a call sent in by the land-lady of the place. On the arrival of the police, she said that the dead man had registered there three days before under the name of "Judge Harper," in room 10. She claimed that he had been intoxicated and that she saw him drunk for three days prior to the trouble, and that Monday night she heard a crash, and on rushing out, she saw him lying face downward on the stairs. The police took the woman's story for granted, and placed the dying man in the emergency hospital. Dr. F. B. Steele, the police surgeon, arrived shortly afterward and attended the case. Dr. Steele signed the death certificate to the effect that the man had died from fracture at the base of the skull.

Among the numerous communica-tions received by widely known and respected citizens this morning is the following: "Mr. Edmund Goring, Dear Sir: In this morning's paper, Nov. 19, note the circumstances surrounding our father's death and was very much nocked to read of this sad occurrence shocked to read of this sad occurrence. As I was quite well acquainted with your father and met him occasionally, and, furthermore, as he was at my house on Sunday, I feel very much distressed over the sudden demise of your parent. From what I have seen during the space of time in which I have associated with your father, I was never led to believe that he could have fallen, as stated in yesterday's paper, owing to his being intoxicated, as his habit was never to partake of more than two or three glasses of beer, and it seems as if there is some foul play connected with this occurrence. I left your father on Sunday night at 7:36 and put him on the car and he seemed in good spirits. If there is anything I can do to help in this matter, kindly call me on the phone and I will be glad to help you investigate this

"The strangest part of the whole thing is that he was supposed to have registered in this house as Judge Harper, when he scarcely knew enough English to understand this term. Yours very respectfully, (signed) Philip K. Ripka." Mr. Ripka is prominently connected with the Breeden Office Supply company. not registered under the name of "Judge Harper" as was falsely stated by the police. The name of "T.
